Mrs. Clara Emerson Clark. Mrs. Chas. H. Smith gave a beautiful reception last night in honor of Mrs. Emerson Clark of Detroit and Mrs. Whitehead of Hutchinson—West Side Youngsters have a merry outing—The J. F. N. M. Club meets with Miss Aley and is entertained by a Mock Wedding—Other Society Notes of Interest.

One of the most thoroughly enjoyable affairs of the whole season was the reception given by Mrs. L. N. Singer last Tuesday afternoon from 3 to 5 at her beautiful home, 519 Glenn avenue. Four large rooms were thrown into one and tastefully decorated with cut flowers and yellow roses, presenting a very attractive appearance.

The guest of honor was Mrs. Clara Emerson Clark of Lawrence, formerly of Wichita, a highly cultured woman and well known here, being especially beloved among Hyattian members, as one of their former presidents.

Mrs. Singer was assisted in entertaining by Mesdames G. W. Hoss, J. G. Dorsey and J. T. Donnell, and the spirit of friendliness and cordiality which pervaded the atmosphere made it no ordinary affair.

Dainty refreshments were served. The invited guests were: Mesdames Penton Clark, J. K. Bennett, R. A. Sankey, W. C. Richards, L. R. Priddy, Howard Sorensen, A. C. McCoy, Clark Hendrix, W. L. WEST SIDE YOUNG FOLKS.

It is doubtful whether the trees of Lincoln park have ever before echoed the happy songs and laughter of a jollier crowd than that which was assembled there on last Monday evening. The picnic was a crowd of young people from the vicinity of a high school, with Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Dorsey and Mr. and Mrs. Charlton as chaperons. Games, swings, hammocks and dainty refreshments assisted in making the evening one of special enjoyment to all, and when the moon arose at nearly 10 o'clock the picnickers drove home, enjoying the pleasant moonlight as much as they had the side in the earlier part of the evening. The picnickers were: Youngster Charles, Clarence McKinnis, Lotta Charlton, John Charles, Bessie McKinnis, Charlie Elder, Rudolph Hatfield, Bessie Smith, Mauden Martindale, Percy Chandler, Ronald Smith, Mabel Munns, Ethel Israel, Ada Baldwin, Catha Martindale, Dr. Dorsey, Mr. Cannon, Mrs. Dorsey and Mrs. Charlton.

NAT VINCENT'S DUCK FARM

Something New in the Way of Large Profits From Small Investments.

Syl Duncan, who always takes an interest in all kinds of poultry, one evening this week drove out to see his friend, Nat Vincent, on College Hill, the last place to look for a duck farm, and was much surprised to see the success Mr. Vincent is having with ducks. Starting a year ago with four ducks, he realized nearly $50 from them last year, and this time he has about six hundred young ducks, and eight hundred more in a second incubation. One of first hatching about nine weeks old, will weigh nearly three pounds each; for the early hatching he expects to receive 25 to 30 cents per pound, or nearly $1 each.

Mr. Vincent expects to hatch about 2,000 ducks this season, and is having splendid success in raising them. His ducks are the large Pekin variety, and some of them that are a year old weigh ten pounds each. He will market the young ducks as fast as they are large enough, as the ground occupied is only a hundred foot lot, and will keep his incubators going until July, and will have his ducks on the market by holidays, except such as he retains for sale in pairs, which he receives good prices for, all of which shows what a man can do who has stamina, pluck and judgment to push a business along, that some people think too small for attention or profit. Any one with a lead pencil can figure out Mr. Vincent several hundred dollars ahead on his investment, and but very little time devoted to same. He now has three incubators running and fifteen hens setting.

FATHER THIEBEN NICE

Citizens of Mobile Hear Him Preach at the Cathedral.

The Mobile Daily Herald passes the following well merited compliment on Father Thien of this city, who was honored highly by being invited to preach in the Cathedral during his visit to that city as a delegate from the Catholic Knights of America of this city. The Herald says:

"The Cathedral pulpit was occupied at 10:30 o'clock by Rev. J. Henry Thien, rector of the Cathedral at Wichita, Kan. Father Thien was one of the foremost members of the convention, and impressed all who heard him addressing its members. He is gifted with a magnificent flow of language and a ringing voice as clear as a bell, and when it was heard that he was to preach at the Cathedral the sacred edifice was well filled. The congregation assembled in anticipation of a fine oratorical effort, and they were well satisfied."

GRADERS AT WORK

Mayor Ross Starts the Graders Upon the Streets.

Mayor Finlay Ross is to be commended for the business principles with which he is conducting the affairs of the city. Among other things he has started the graders upon the streets which will do much to promote the convenience and beauty of the city thoroughfares. By this the streets are kept level, and when heavy rains fall the water runs off instead of settling in the little holes that occur when the grading is not kept up. Where the small holes are not mended and constant driving widens and extends them and soon spoils the appearance of the street.

HE WASN'T GUILTY

GILBERT, WHO KILLED PICKERELL AT LEON, IS DISCHARGED.

Shooting Was Justified According to a Coroner's Jury, After a Thorough Investigation of the Case—The Dead Man Was Clearly in the Wrong all the Way Through if There Has Been No Juggling With the Facts—The Trouble Started With an Unreasonable Demand From Pickereil—Details of the Case.

The county attorney and coroner of Butler county have held J. E. Gilbert to have been justifiable in killing his partner and relative, W. L. Pickereil, and have ordered his discharge from the custody of the officers. The full details of the killing as taken from an August paper are as follows:

Last March J. E. Gilbert and W. L. Fletcher came from Galena, Kansas, where they had been working in the mines, and in partnership rented a farm of G. W. Kenoyer, situated about ten miles southeast of Leon, in Logan township. Gilbert was a single man, 31 years of age, and Pickereil, married, and 25 years of age. His wife was his cousin and the daughter of L. C. Pickereil, a well respected citizen of Logan. Gilbert's sister is the wife of Mr. Pickereil's brother.

Gilbert and Pickereil, as stated, had formed a partnership and had put in about 120 acres of corn, the former making his home with the latter. No serious difficulty had occurred between the two until Tuesday of last week, when they had words and Pickereil seized an ax and chased Gilbert, the latter keeping out of the way until the former's anger had cooled, when they became as good friends as ever.

The best information leads one to the conclusion that Pickereil had a violent and at times uncontrollable temper. The two partners were in town Monday transacting business, apparently on the best of terms with each other.

Tuesday morning Pickereil arose and went to the barn to do the chores. He returned and without any reason ordered Gilbert to take his sister-in-law, Miss Ida Pickereil, to her father's home, seven miles distant. Gilbert refused until the young lady had had breakfast. Pickereil declared they should not have breakfast in his house, went to the stove and taking the bread from the oven threw it out doors. He then went to the woodpile, got an ax and entered the house threatening to kill both his wife and Gilbert. The latter was in a back room and having no means of escape, secured a 46-caliber Winchester and ordered Pickereil to halt. The latter continued to advance, when Gilbert, aiming at his antagonist's hands, fired. The ball struck the ax handle, glanced and passed through Pickereil's hand and wrist and on through the lower part of the abdomen.

Pickereil went out of the house and lay down, got up and entered the house again, lay on the floor awhile and then got up and lay on the bed, where he died a few hours later. Before his death he informed Mr. Downing, a neighbor, that he intended to kill Gilbert and then his wife.

When Gilbert had fired the shot he went to a neighbor's, told what he had done, went to Mr. L. C. Pickereil's, the uncle of the wounded man, related the circumstances of the shooting and then went to Leon, surrendering himself to Deputy Sheriff Blakeman.

The authorities were notified and the preliminary hearing set for Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, before "Squire" Wandell. Trustee McCullough took charge of the remains and laid them to rest in the Leon cemetery Wednesday morning.

Mr. Gilbert appears to be a quiet, inoffensive, even-tempered young man. He has lived in southeastern Kansas and southwestern Missouri during the past 2 years. He preferred to say nothing about the sad affair in which he was one of the principal actors, but willingly gave other information. His reputation is good among those with whom he is acquainted. It is said that he told others that he did not shoot to kill, but only to cripple his adversary, and it is probable that but for the bullet striking the ax handle and glancing, Mr. Pickereil would be alive today.

The general opinion seems to be that the shooting was in self-defense and justifiable. The deceased is described as having had a high temper and liable at any time to fly into a passion upon the slightest provocation. His uncle related that one time he said that when angry one should not use a knife, and the only way to do was to knock him on the head. The father several years ago worked in Middleton's stone quarry, and was in the same company in the civil war as John Riffe.

OLD-TIME LIVING.

GRANDPA TELLS THE STORY OF PIONEER LIFE.

MODERN MODES OF LIVING.

"Hungry as a horse, eh? That's right, my boy—just so long as you get good and hungry and sleep like a top you're all right."

That's what grandpa says. Everybody stops to listen when grandpa talks about the times when he was young—when he was a boy. Grandpa's talks are more interesting than a book. The children lay aside their toys. Father stops reading his paper. Mother puts down her sewing for a time.

Grandpa's story goes back to a time before many of us were born. It is a story of many privations and few pleasures. It is a narration of hardships and struggles with wild men and wild beasts. It is a tale of great labor and scant rewards.

Grandpa tells about the time when he and grandma started life. Their home was a log cabin and they depended for a livelihood upon their own muscles and brave hearts. Grandpa worked from sun to sun clearing away forests. Grandma made her own and grandpa's clothes. She even spun the cloth. She worked for weeks to produce the crudest garments. Everything was done by hand.

There is a lesson in health in grandpa's stories. He tells about how hard he and grandma worked, but he doesn't tell how hard they slept. He tells of the long hours of labor, but not of the long hours of rest. He doesn't tell of their simple, plain food—of how perfectly they digested and assimilated it.

People nowadays do not depend so entirely upon their muscles for a livelihood. The greatest strain is upon their brains. They scheme and plan by day and when night comes their brains refuse to rest. They keep late hours. They rush—they hurry. They are perpetual motion machines. They eat every sort of indigestible thing that cooks can concoct.

Almost before childhood is past indigestion begins. People begin to die just when they ought to live. Constipation is the first serious ailment. It is an air-brake on the body's machinery. When the bowels do not work, the whole body stops. The blood becomes impure because the digestive organs do not throw off the waste material in the system. The whole organism limps along like a man on crutches. The nerves are tantalized and sting the brain like nettles. As a consequence, people become irritable, ill-tempered and despondent. The general health breaks down and some deadly disease like nervous prostration or consumption sets in.

Men and women nowadays need to resort occasionally to some first-class tonic. They need something that will tone up the stomach and put an edge on the appetite. They need something to stimulate their livers. They need something to brace them up generally. The best "something" of this description is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It will make a man "hungry as a horse."

It will make him "sleep like a top." It will get him up in the morning fresh and bright as a new dollar. He will walk down the street with a feeling of vim and vigor in every muscle. He will work all day like a steam engine. He will come home in the evening tired, but so hungry he clears the table. The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the great blood-maker and flesh-builder. It cures 98 per cent of all cases of constipation and diseases of the air passages, as laryngitis, bronchitis and catarrhal troubles. It is the best medicine for nervous exhaustion and prostration. It cures cases that physicians have abandoned as utterly hopeless—cases where it seems only a question of a few days until the patient must die. It is for sale by all good medicine dealers. Only unscrupulous dealers will urge you to take some inferior substitute.

Accidents occur in every home. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser tells what to do. Send 21 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only, to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., for a paper covered copy. French cloth bound, 10 cents extra.

"I will now endeavor to give you a full description of my husband's illness as far as I can," writes Mrs. M. J. Teller of Ellington, Reynolds Co., Mo. "Eight years ago last March is the date when he commenced to take Dr. Pierce's medicine. He was thirty-one years old when married and that winter every time he took a little cold he would cough very hard. He had pains all through his chest and lungs. When summer came he was feeling well and looking well. He said he had always coughed in the winter since a child. He was not alarmed at the symptoms as I was. I knew that my mother and the rest of the family had that dreadful cough and the most of them died with that dreadful disease, consumption. He continued to cough every winter, but kept at work and paid very little attention to his disease until in 1887 he had an attack of pneumonia. From that time on he was as well as he was before. His cough grew worse and worse, although he kept around all the time. Sometimes he would vomit immediately after his meals. He went on in that way for some time. In the winter of 1888 he coughed all winter and in the spring commenced his work as usual, coughing night and day the most of the time. Then I requested him to try something new or to go to the doctor. He said, 'well if I go to the doctor I will go to bed, and go there to stay. I will never get well if I depend upon the doctor's medicine.' By this time he was getting very weak and had no appetite, so he went to the drug store and the druggist said to him, 'well I think it the best for you to go to the doctor.' My husband said, 'no, I will not, for if I do I will die sure, as I have known people with this disease who went to the doctors and next they went to the grave. You know as well as I that the doctors all call this disease hereditary consumption. 'Well,' said the druggist, 'I will give you Dr. Pierce's medicine, and you can try it, as I believe it is the best medicine I have in my store. You can give it a trial.' So my husband commenced Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and also the 'Pelle's,' and by the time one bottle was gone he was improving. He had a better appetite and was feeling much better. He took seven bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and as many of the 'Pelle's.' At the end of that time he looked like a new man, and said he felt like a
